Last Week:

Martin Kane, teacher at Westview High School and director of Weakley Playhouse, shared excitement about upcoming productions and the benefits of being involved in theatre when he gave a presentation for Kiwanis on October 15. The first production in early November will be "Clue: High School Edition," a play based on a movie based on a game, which will be a high energy slapstick performance involving actors from all four high schools in Weakley County. Kane said that performances will be Nov. 7-9 and 14-16, and he encouraged all to attend and to begin spreading the excitement surrounding this production. Other productions will be the musical "Mamma Mia!" for high school students (scheduled for the last weekend in April and first weekend in May) and "Annie, Jr" for middle school students in February. Kane explained that the Clue production is double cast with 14 students for one show and 14 for another. There are approximately 60 students from all four high schools in Weakley County involved in the production. Kane teaches Theatre I and II classes at Westview in addition to French, Spanish, and AV Production. Students in his theatre classes and the Drama Club assist with productions at the middle school, where he goes one day per week to promote theatre. Martin noted that those who wished to donate to the Weakley Playhouse can make a check to Martin Westview specifying that your donation should support Weakley Playhouse. At the end of Martin's presentation, Katie Parr presented Martin with a certificate indicating that a donation in his honor is to be given to support the Captain's Pantry at UT Martin.
